

New Publication: Cancer risk increases with height

The taller you are, the greater is your risk of developing cancer – and this applies to both men and women, suggests a new study just published in the journal Cancer Causes & Control. The study, entitled “Pooled cohort study on height and risk of cancer and cancer death”, is a collaboration between researchers in Sweden, Norway, Austria and Germany. Tone Bjørge and Anders Engeland from the department have been part of this collaboration. Read more about the study here.

New Publication: Fetal growth and childhood cancers

Does birth weight lead to an increased risk of childhood cancer? This new article published in Pediatrics studies the connection between fetal growth and childhood cancer. Tone Bjørge and her coauthors have turned their focus towards these factors, and looked closer at the connection between the risk of childhood cancers in relation to fetal growth.
